

General Information

REGISTRATION

All continuing students in good academic and financial standing are eligible to register for courses. Students will register via email during the scheduled registration period. Specific registration dates will be emailed to all students at least one week before registration begins.

Registration in a given semester is for the following term.

DROPPING AND ADDING COURSES

- Students may adjust their schedules, free of charge, by contacting the Registrar's Office.
- The Drop/Add period is the first two weeks of classes in any given semester. Drop/Add can be used to change a schedule or add an audit. Please see the Academic Calendar for exact dates.

REGISTRATION HOLDS

Registration holds may be placed on student records by the Bursar's Office, Library, or Financial Aid due to outstanding financial obligation. A hold on a student's record prohibits the student from registering until the obligation is fulfilled. In some cases a hold can lead to the deactivation of a student ID, temporarily limiting access to PAFA facilities. Please be sure to check your PAFA email account and voicemail for an indication you may have a hold. If you find a notice indicating you need to see any of these offices, you will need to resolve the problem before registration begins to register for your classes.

It is recommended you check with the following offices to confirm you are not on hold PRIOR to pre-registration.

Bursar's Office:

Julia King Julia.King@claconnect.com

Financial Aid Office:

Ivette Valentin Ivette.Valentin@claconnect.com

AUDITING CLASSES

All Students:

Classes may be audited on a space available basis (the same policy for adding a class for credit) but cannot be added as an audit until the first two weeks of the semester. A record of audited work will appear on the student's academic record and are subject to the same grading policy as other classes. Students may not audit more than one class per semester. Audit status may not be changed except during the add/drop and withdrawal period as with any course, and at no time can credit be granted retroactively. The fee structure for audited classes is the same as credit classes.

Full-time undergraduate students are eligible to audit one undergraduate course per semester. MFA and Post-Bac students are eligible to audit one undergraduate course per semester.

CLOSED CLASSES

Some classes have smaller class limits than others, and some classes fill quickly due to popularity. It is important for students to choose alternative classes in case a requested class closes. The student's advisor can assist with the selection of alternate courses during advising and during pre-registration.

WAITLISTS

For any classes that fill, the Registrar will be maintaining a list of students interested in enrolling should a seat become available. Please see the Registrar for more information.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

All undergraduate students are required to meet with their academic advisor prior to the day of registration. We ask that students please come to registration prepared. This means have your registration roster completed, with your signature, and signed by your academic advisor.

CHAIRPERSON

Animation & Time-Based Media	Amy Lee Ketchum	aketchum@pobox.pafa.edu
Fine Arts (Drawing, Painting, Printmaking, Sculpture)	Jill Rupinski	rupinski@pobox.pafa.edu
Illustration	Jessica Abel	jabel@pobox.pafa.edu

SCHEDULES AND BILLS

At registration, all registration rosters are entered in the computer and a copy of the student’s schedule will be available online via the Student Portal within a few weeks. Bills will be posted to the Student Portal approximately one month before the first day of class.

DEFICIENCIES

Academic deficiencies (incompletes or unresolved failures) may keep a student from registering during their appointment time.

INCOMPLETES

Students have the first six weeks of the Spring semester to complete work for Fall Incompletes and until July 15 to complete work for Spring Incompletes, otherwise the “P” will convert to an “F.” Please see the Academic Calendar for exact dates.

UNSATISFACTORY PROGRESS

A student who receives an “F” for a class must repeat and satisfactorily complete the same class or an approved substitute. The grade of “F” will be replaced with an “R” when the course has been satisfactorily completed. Students are not eligible to graduate until all outstanding failures have been retaken and a passing grade received.

THINGS TO REMEMBER:

VARIABLE CREDIT: Some non-figurative classes in Printmaking and Sculpture are offered for variable credit. This is indicated by a "V" (i.e., 1.5/V) following the credit on the schedule grid. Be sure to indicate clearly on your registration roster how many credits you are registering for.

COMPLETED ROSTERS: A registration roster is not complete and cannot be processed by the Registrar until it is signed and dated by the academic advisor AND the student. NOTE: Due to some remote advising, advisor signatures are not required. Students are still required to consult with their advisors prior to registration.

Students with outstanding financial obligation to PAFA will not be permitted to register for classes.
Please be sure to resolve any problems prior to registration.

Undergraduate Registration

STEP 1. SIGN UP FOR ADVISING on your advisor's schedule, either through on campus sign-ups, Acuity Scheduling or via email.

STEP 2. Complete a Registration Roster (emailed to you).

- Review the curriculum requirements for your program (found on your Tracking Sheet)
- Review the courses you have already completed. Your Tracking Sheet has been emailed to you. Contact the Registrar if you did not receive yours.
- Identify the requirements you have to fulfill to complete your current level (2nd year requirements, etc)
- Select courses from the course grid and class list that fulfill these outstanding requirements.
- FILL OUT YOUR FORM COMPLETELY AND LEGIBLY. BE SURE TO INCLUDE YOUR NAME ON YOUR FORM. BE CAREFUL IN RECORDING COURSE AND SECTION NUMBERS. Use pencil!

STEP 3. MEET WITH YOUR ADVISOR during your scheduled time.

Arrive to your scheduled advising appointment with a filled out Registration Roster and prepared to talk about what classes you would like to register for. Your advisor is there to help you confirm your schedule, discuss your choices and finalize it. Advisors are NOT there to select your schedule and fill out your form for you!

STEP 4. Follow the appropriate schedule below to register for classes!

Undergraduate Pre-Registration Schedule:

Pre-registration takes place in the Fall for the Spring semester and in the Spring for the following Fall semester. Most students are assigned an appointment time for pre-registration and students are expected to keep their assigned appointment time. If you have questions or concerns about eligibility to register or your appointment time, please contact the Registrar.

Appointments are assigned based on level (credits completed) and are randomized and balanced prior to assignment. Eligible students will receive their appointment time by email. Times will be made available as soon as possible and are randomly generated and balanced each semester.

Students with outstanding financial obligations to PAFA are not permitted to register until obligations have been met. Additionally, academic deficiencies (incompletes or unresolved failures) may keep a student from registering during their scheduled appointment time.

Student schedules are confirmed upon receipt of full tuition/fee payments for the semester in question. A student's enrollment is subject to cancellation during the add/drop period for nonpayment of tuition and fees.

LEVEL	CREDITS COMPLETED BY MAY 2024	DATE & LOCATION
All Levels	All credits	April 1
Fourth year students should email their rosters to the Registrar. All rosters will be processed on a first come first served basis.

MFA Registration Schedule:

MFA students will register via email in early April Specific details will be emailed in late March. Completed schedules will be available on the Student Portal shortly after registration.

PAFA BFA Curriculum & Requirements

The Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) in Studio Art with a major in Fine Arts requires the completion of 126 credits, of which 84 credits are comprised of studio art studies and 42 credits are comprised of liberal arts studies:

- Studies in Art History & Criticism - 15 credits
- Studies in Language & Literature - 12 credits
- Studies in History, Culture, and Social Science - 9 credits
- Studies in Science & Quantitative Thinking - 6 credits

The academic year consists of 30 weeks. A full-time undergraduate student is expected to complete an average of 30 credits during the academic year. For each 3 hours of studio class time, 1.5 semester credits will be awarded. For every 3 hours of class time in a liberal arts course, 3.0 semester credits will be awarded.

Full Time Study: A full-time class load varies from 12.0 –18.0 semester credits. Students are not permitted to carry more than 18.0 semester credits.

A BFA student majors in Fine Art, but chooses a concentration in Animation, Drawing, Illustration, Painting, Printmaking or Sculpture. Students may also elect to pursue an Individualized Study Plan (ISP) to combine elements from multiple areas of study.

The first and second years of the BFA provide a solid foundation of studio art training in life drawing, cast drawing, painting, sculpture and printmaking, with attention given to anatomy, perspective, art history, materials and techniques. The program stresses the development of a personal style and approach to artmaking. The program of liberal arts studies is geared to the needs of artists, and includes courses in art history and criticism, language and literature, history and social science, and science and quantitative reasoning. In the fourth and final year of study, BFA students are given personal studio space, take advanced studio art classes and are part of the Studio Critique program, with frequent individual critiques from PAFA's large and diverse faculty of working artists.

BFA Program Graduation Requirements

PAFA grants its BFA to students who have met the following requirements:

- Satisfactory completion of a minimum of 126 credits.
- Achievement of a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA,
- Full-time attendance at PAFA while in studio during the 4th year.
- Fulfillment of all department requirements.
- Fulfillment of all financial obligations, the return of PAFA property and proper maintenance of private studios.
- Completion of a BFA portfolio consisting of an artist's statement, a writing sample, and documentation of their visual work.
- Graduating students are required to exhibit once in the Annual Student Exhibition.

PAFA-Penn BFA Curriculum & Requirements

The PAFA-Penn Coordinated BFA: The PAFA-Penn Coordinated BFA is a unique partnership between PAFA and the University of Pennsylvania. It is a four or five year, full-time program of focused group studio classes, individual studios and mentoring from the faculty critics at PAFA, and a range of rigorous liberal arts courses at an Ivy League institution. Students in the PAFA-Penn BFA choose from five major areas of concentration: Drawing, Illustration, Painting, Printmaking and Sculpture.

The academic year consists of 30 weeks. A full-time undergraduate student is expected to complete an average of 30 credits during the academic year. For each 3 hours of studio work, 1.5 semester credits will be awarded.

Full Time Study: A full-time class load varies from 12.0 –18.0 semester credits. Students are not permitted to carry more than 18.0 semester credits.

Majors: In the Fall semester of the 2nd year, BFA students declare a major in Drawing, Illustration, Painting, Printmaking, or Sculpture.

PAFA-Penn BFA Program Graduation Requirements

- Satisfactory completion of a minimum of 90 credits,
- Achievement of a minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA,
- Full-time attendance at PAFA while in studio during the 3rd year
- Fulfillment of all department requirements.
- Fulfillment of 16 units of liberal arts classes at the University of Pennsylvania
- Fulfillment of all financial obligations, the return of PAFA property and proper maintenance of private studios.
- PAFA-Penn students are required to exhibit once in the Annual Student Exhibition.

The First Year Curriculum:

PAFA's first-year curriculum introduces students to the key skills, concepts and studio art disciplines that are critical to their growth as artists. It is PAFA's philosophy that developing strong traditional skills in combination with contemporary practices prepares students to innovate, experiment and find their own personal voice. The first-year experience at PAFA provides students with an unparalleled foundation on which to build and explore. Team-taught courses give students a solid grounding in drawing, painting, sculpture, printmaking, illustration and digital media. Direct observation and working from the figure play vital roles, and students learn anatomy and study from PAFA's historic cast collection. The first-year program helps students achieve a high level of competency with materials and processes as they work in the sculpture and print making shops and gain new media skills in the digital labs. The curriculum introduces students to the primary areas of study at PAFA and prepares them to focus in the direction of their choosing.

Studio work is complemented by rigorous liberal arts studies that help students understand key concepts and clearly articulate their ideas. In the first year, students take courses in art history and writing, and learn about museum studies and art historical methodologies. PAFA's museum offers an extraordinary resource as students learn from the collection and special exhibitions. Talks by visiting artists, curators and scholars help students gain a greater awareness of important historical and contemporary artists and ideas.

PAFA's Second-Year Curriculum:

In the Fall semester of their second year, students further explore their studio work through a series of elective courses while continuing their liberal arts studies. Students are required to take studio courses in at least three of PAFA's primary areas of study- Painting, Drawing, Printmaking, Sculpture, Animation and Illustration. It is recommended students take at least three credits in the area they are considering focusing in. Experimenting in multiple disciplines gives students a breadth of knowledge and chance to try out different ways of working. Students declare their area of concentration when they register for their fourth semester.

The second year liberal arts requirements include AH 200 Contemporary Art & Theory and CUL 200 Introduction to Social Sciences.

Individualized Study Plan (ISP)

An Individualized Study Plan (ISP) is intended for self-directed students who wish to combine two or more areas of study in an intentional and directed way. Students who wish to pursue an ISP must write a narrative that clearly articulates their goals and purpose, submit a schedule of the specific courses they intend to take each semester, and obtain the signatures of two chairpersons from departments in which they plan to do coursework.

The BFA in Fine Arts with an Individual Study Plan consists of the following credit requirements:

First Year Requirements	33 credits
Upper –Level Liberal Arts Courses	30 credits
200-Level Studio Courses	27 – 33 credits
300-Level Studio Courses	18 – 24 credits
Studio Critiques	9 credits
Studio Practice and Art & Prof Practice	3 credits
Total:	126 credits

Post-Baccalaureate Curriculum & Requirements

Post Baccalaureate Program

The Post-Baccalaureate Program is a one-year studio-based curriculum of graduate level study in studio art, designed to improve the artistic abilities of every participant during an uninterrupted period of accelerated effort. Each student is assigned a private studio and a team of faculty critics. Students and faculty meet regularly to assess each student's artistic needs. Every artwork is understood within its particular genre, with special attention to subject, form, content, and the use of materials, skills, techniques, and images.

In addition to individual studio critiques with each faculty critic, group critiques with everyone in attendance are an integral part of the learning process. Every week, Post-Baccalaureate students participate in two courses: one a seminar of readings, research, aesthetics, and criticism; and another studio-based elective. In consultation with the faculty, students may also elect studio courses within PAFA's undergraduate programs. Post-Bacc students are permitted to audit one undergraduate course each semester on a space-available basis.

Our graduate studio electives embrace all manner and media, and are central to the graduate curriculum. The discussion seminars are intended to stimulate the intellectual rigor with which to refine, and redefine, the artistic interests of the participants. Ultimately, all of these courses are meant to serve the needs of studio art making.

A Certificate of Completion is awarded upon the successful conclusion of both semesters of course work.

Master of Fine Arts Curriculum & Requirements

Master of Fine Arts Program

The Master of Fine Arts (MFA) program at PAFA is an intensive, two-year experience that focuses on studio practice and individual artistic development. The program is interdisciplinary in nature and welcomes students working in a variety of media with a wide range of interests. Through seminars, studio classes, critiques, and visiting artist lectures, students are exposed to diverse viewpoints and approaches to art making. The program fosters a strong sense of community and students are both supported and challenged by their peers and faculty. The MFA program enables students to become independent, critical thinkers and makers who are engaged members of their artistic communities.

The PAFA MFA offers seminars in theory, contemporary art, writing and professional practices. Students also enroll in studio classes with a range of topics that include: figure drawing, contemporary themes in painting, and video and animation. In addition, students have the option of taking an array of undergraduate courses such as mold-making and landscape painting. PAFA is a school that cares deeply about how things are made as well as the ideas behind them. The curriculum is structured to help students improve their abilities to see and make while also broadening and deepening their conceptual framework and skills to discuss and write about art.

The core of the program is students' individual studio practice. Through experimentation, one on one discussion with critics, and group critiques, students develop their work and ideas into a sustainable, thoughtful artistic practice. In their studio work, students are encouraged to be independent, self-motivated and open to the new possibilities and ideas that arise through the course of making. Students have a private studio with 24 hour access and access to the print and sculpture shops, the cast hall and the tremendous museum collection.

During the second year of the program, students begin to focus towards a body of work that constitutes their thesis. The program of study culminates in an exhibition of thesis work within the museum galleries of the Samuel M.V. Hamilton Building.

Low Residency Master of Fine Arts Curriculum & Requirements

Low Residency Master of Fine Arts Program

The Low-Residency Master of Fine Arts (MFA) program is the ideal program for students who desire the community, support and rigor of a traditional MFA, but with a more flexible structure to fit their lives and schedules. Similar to PAFA's traditional MFA, the Low-Residency program focuses on independent studio work and is interdisciplinary in nature, welcoming a wide range of approaches to art making.

The Low-Res MFA consists of both on-site and off-site learning. The core of the program is three summer terms completed on the PAFA campus. For these intensive, eight-week sessions, students have their own private studio and are engaged in independent work. Individual studio research is complemented by seminar courses, regular visits with faculty, group critiques, and an outstanding roster of visiting artists. During the fall and spring terms, students are off-site, and supported by a vital online community with virtual studios, critic meetings and courses in art history, contemporary art, theory, writing and professional practices.

Key to the summer sessions is PAFA's location in the heart of Philadelphia. Seminars connect students with museums, galleries and artists' studios. Philadelphia's proximity to New York and Washington D.C. allows for day trips to see even more. The online component of the program ensures that students are always connected to their community of peers and faculty, and receive continual feedback and support for their work.

Art History: Visual Culture

Beetham

This course will introduce students to visual culture: an interdisciplinary field of study that focuses on aspects of culture that are manifested in visual form. Combining aspects of art and media history, critical theory, philosophy, and anthropology, visual culture is concerned with the ways in which we negotiate and understand our world through visual images. This course will look at paintings, sculptures, prints, photographs, film, television, advertisements, news and science images, and more, in order to understand how the world itself is shaped by visual communication. Students in this course will cultivate skills in visual analysis and description, identify how ways of looking are socially constructed, critique the role of images in shaping political discourse, and assess ethical dilemmas posed by images. These skills will provide the basis for literary skills necessary in both the liberal arts and studio art curriculum.

AH 104 (S) 3.0

Deconstructing American Art

Beetham

Since its founding in 1805, the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts has been a leading light in the development of an art tradition in the United States. Artists trained at PAFA have created some of the most important works in the American art canon, many of which are now enshrined in PAFA's collection. But what sorts of stories does the canon of American art tell? What does it include, and what does it leave out? And how do historical portraits, landscapes, genre paintings, monuments and more contribute to our understanding of America as a nation? This course will explore the trajectory of American art in an effort to understand how images contribute to historical understanding, and when they become mythology. In examining where we have been and where we might go, we will consider how to tell a more inclusive story about American art.

AH 200 (F) 3.0

Contemporary Art & Theory

Faculty

This course will introduce students to concepts from critical theory pertinent for an understanding of art today. The class will explore the developments in aesthetics from the late eighteenth-century to today, examining the evolution of ideas through their impact on the development of the visual arts. The instructor will also discuss relevant works of art from the nineteenth and twentieth-centuries to further analyze the theories under consideration, while placing an emphasis on providing an introduction to key ideas and works within contemporary art, especially as they relate to the development of critical theory.

AH 208 (IR) 3.0

Twentieth-Century Art

Richards

This course will introduce students to the major artists, works, and movements of twentieth-century art, placing this aesthetic narrative within the larger historical context of the era. In particular, attention will be paid to the issue of identity and how artists try to define themselves and others through a changing social fabric. In addition, the material conditions within which these works were produced will also be discussed. This will allow students to see how the defining issues of the modern world are negotiated between individuals and the physical world around them through the work of art.

AH 212 (IR) 3.0

Women in Art

Beetham

This course will look at the myriad contributions by women artists to the history of nineteenth and twentieth century art. While the focus will be primarily on American artists, the role of European art in forming the ideals of Western art will be considered, as well as the use of non-Western traditions as an influence to artists of the avant-garde. The role of gender and other sociological factors in delimiting the opportunities for women historically in the arts will be discussed, while looking also at the ways that women have overcome these obstacles to play a vital role in the development of the visual arts.

AH 213 (IR) 3.0

Non-Western Art

Yantz

This course will explore the visual cultures of non-Western societies. Emphasis will be placed on, but not limited to, historical works from Africa, Asian, and Oceania, as well as Pre-Colombian and Native North and South America. The class will explore the development of styles, in addition to the material conditions and cultural contexts through which these objects were produced.

AH/CUL 214 (IR) 3.0

Arts of the World from Prehistory to the Present

Yantz

This course places the world's major art movements in their cultural contexts, analyzing relationships between art, religion, culture, geography, and global pathways. The course also explores issues in the world of art today, identifies themes and iconography used in art, and provides an introduction to stylistic analysis.

AH 215 (IR) 3.0

Art & Culture of the Ancient Mediterranean

Beetham

This course will explore the art and cultural history of the civilizations of the ancient Mediterranean, especially the ancient Near East, ancient Egypt, ancient Greece, and ancient Rome. Lectures and discussions will consider significant sites and monuments in this region of the world, investigating the ways in which ancient art interacts with and enhances our understanding of key social, political, economic, and cultural developments. Topics will include the ways in which art communicates power dynamics, representations of the human body across cultures, and intersections between art and religion. We will also investigate how iconoclasm in the ancient world can help us to think about more recent events, and the ways in which colonialism in the modern era has influenced how we think about these ancient cultures.

AH 219 (IR) 3.0 Islamic Civilizations Yantz
This course covers the art and culture of North Africa and the Middle East from the origins of writing to the present. Course content includes the relationship of geography to culture, early Middle Eastern civilizations (such as Sumer, Assyria and Persia), the origin and development of Islam, including the life of the Prophet, the Caliphate and the Golden Age of Islam. We also cover the Mongol invasion, then the art, architecture, religion and politics of the Late Great empires—Mughals in India, Safavids in Iran, and Ottomans in Turkey. Discussion of modern issues includes Sunni vs Shia, Women in Islam, democracy in the Middle East, freedom of expression, the Arab-Israeli conflict, U.S. relations with the Middle East (particularly Israel and Iran, but also the Emirates and the Saudis, e.g., Mohammad bin Salman’s future vision for Saudi Arabia.) Since the core component of this course is art, we also consider the aesthetics of Islamic art as well as its diversity, covering calligraphy in the Qur’an, lush Persian manuscript decoration, Ottoman mosque design, and Mughal jewelry. Highlights include the Taj Mahal, the newly investigated desert ‘kites’ (land art) and a sampler of contemporary art and architecture in the Middle East. NOTE: Due to the interdisciplinary content of this course, it can fulfill Art History or Culture/Social Science requirement.

AH 220 (IR) 3.0 African-American Art Faculty
This course is an introduction to African-American Visual Art. Since the 17th century, African Americans have made vital contributions to the art of the United States. This course is largely constructed around the visual works several African American artists created in efforts to critique and comment upon the conditions of Blacks in this country. We will study African American visual production from the colonial period to present day, paying close attention to the social, political, and cultural history of America and the role African American artists play in the development of those histories. Individual artists and their works will be analyzed in relation to critical periods and issues such as; slavery, emancipation, Jim Crow segregation, the Great Migration, the New Negro Harlem Renaissance, the Federal Arts Project, the Civil Rights and Black Nationalism Movements, and finally the emergence of globalism, multiculturalism, and critical theory in the late 20th and early 21st centuries. In addition, the importance of viewing the African American experience in relation to American culture, Africa, and the Diaspora will also be considered.

AH 221 (IR) 3.0 American Sculpture Beetham
This course will explore the development of a sculptural tradition in the United States from early efforts in the eighteenth century up to the present day. Lectures and discussions will consider the factors that make sculpture a unique medium, the reasons that a sculptural tradition took longer to develop in the United States than traditions in other media, and the problems of studying sculpture from two-dimensional representations. Emphasis will be placed on works created for both the public and the private sphere, including monuments, cemetery sculpture, site-specific works, and works created for wealthy patrons and for the middle-class home. In addition to in-class meetings and use of PAFA's collections, this course will include field trips.

AH 224 (IR) 3.0 Native American Art Yantz
This course will investigate the art, culture and religion of the indigenous peoples of the New World, including North, South and Mesoamerica. The course will consider culture and geography, origins and development of traditional belief systems, oral history and writing, and the high artistic achievements of native peoples at contact, such as the Aztecs, Inkas and peoples of the Northwest Coast. Issues concerning archaeology and ethics, museum practices, and contemporary native arts will be covered in the classroom and on a field trip to a local museum.

AH 225 (IR) 3.0 World Photography Since 1839 Beetham
This course will examine the global history of photography from 1839 to the present and its relation to social history and theories of artistic expression. Topics discussed will include the relationship between photography and painting; the effect of photography on portraiture; the use of photography in the service of exploration and anthropology; the development of photography as a fine art; the use of abstraction in photography; photography as a critique of art history; and photography and censorship.

AH 226 (IR) 3.0 Art and the Age of Discovery Yantz
This course covers High Renaissance, Mannerist and Baroque art in its cultural and global context from the Age of Discovery to the Enlightenment. Paintings, drawings, prints, sculpture, and architecture will be viewed through the lens of global change in science, philosophy, religion, politics, culture, and commerce, including the transatlantic slave trade--which together make way for the modern world. This course will include European Old Masters, Baroque in the New World, and non-Western sources from the East that influence European art and thought.

AH 227 (IR) Art & Culture of Native North America Yantz
Course content features the arts, culture and religion of the civilizations of Indigenous America, including the Mound Builders of the Eastern Woodlands, the Pueblo dwellers and Navajo of the Desert Southwest, the woodcarvers of the Northwest Coast, the basket makers of the West Coast, and artists of the Plains known for their work in painting and hide. Lectures will cover the role of art and architecture in indigenous societies, and indigenous aesthetics and philosophical concepts of beauty. Course content also incorporates beliefs, practices, and oral traditions related to the Vision Quest, origin stories, trickster figures, medicine and healing practices, protective objects (such as amulets, Zuni fetishes and Dream Catchers), and educational items like Kachina dolls and plaques. We conclude with the impact of European contact, early Colonial art, and the visions of the founding fathers, especially Thomas Jefferson, who first engaged in scientific excavations of native mounds. Contemporary native arts, the code talkers’ contributions to WWII, and modern life will also find a spot in the conclusion of this course.

AH 231 (IR) 3.0 Medieval Encounters: Art & Architecture in the Medieval World Yantz
This course begins with Late Antiquity (art, culture, religion, politics & immigration in the Late Roman Empire), then moves to the Celts & art in the British Isles (dazzling illuminated manuscripts, metal & stonework) followed by the impact of the Norse as traders, settlers, artists and invaders (who founded Dublin & plundered Paris). The course also examines the rise of kings & empires in the West (Carolingian, Ottonian & Holy Roman Empire) and the East (Byzantine, Islamic Caliphate, and the Mongols, whose reach includes China). Course content considers global connections made through trade, commerce, politics, the Crusades, Pilgrimages & the Cult of Relics, the lingering footprint of the Classical World, the rise of Christianity and its missionary work. Additionally, we look at attitudes toward both the natural world & human nature, the role of women in the Medieval world, the significance of monasticism, and the nature of war (knights, notions of chivalry, ideas of Just Wars, heroes like Saladin & Richard, and changing military technology). This course concludes with the opening of the Renaissance, its global origins, artistic sources, and new theological and philosophical concepts.

AN 200A (F) 3.0 Animation Techniques: Handmade to Digital Ketchum

In this introductory course to animation students will learn basic principles of movement that apply to all forms of animation regardless of technique. Through screenings of historical and contemporary precedents students will gain an understanding of what is possible in this interdisciplinary and versatile form of art. The course will cover techniques such as 2d hand-drawn, stop-motion, and digital animation using programs such as Dragonframe, Photoshop, Animate (aka Flash) and Adobe After Effects.

AN 201 (F) 3.0 Pre-Production Processes Ketchum

Animating is just one aspect of making a moving image project. In this course students learn the process of storyboarding, editing and sound designing moving image projects. Whether one is interested in experimental or traditional commercial animation, these skills will enable students to enhance their projects. Students will develop skills in staging subjects, visualizing camera angles, and establishing emotional beats essential to creating powerful moments. They will also develop an understanding of how sound and editing affect the ability to communicate through moving images. The main purpose of this course is to give students the production skills needed for potential animation internships and personal moving image projects. Pre-requisite: AN 200A Animation Techniques (previously Principles of Animation) or AN 202 2-D Animation.

AN 202 (S) 3.0 2-D Animation Ketchum

Students will apply the basics of animation introduced in Animation Techniques, as well as the drawing skills attained from the Foundation Year, to this course in 2-D Animation. Using software such as Adobe Animate, Adobe After Effects, and Photoshop, students will learn to draw frame by frame to create the illusion of life. Students will complete exercises in character animation, objects responding to the laws of physics, and effects animation leading up to a final moving image project of the students' design.

AN 210 (F) 1.5 Storyboarding Robinson

Artists need to communicate their ideas to crews, clients, and other team members. In fields where interdisciplinary collaboration is critical, creatives need to efficiently share ideas through storyboards. From scripts and project briefs, storyboards previsualize narrative ideas. Within this course students design a sequence of images using movement annotation, composition, spatial cues, perspective, lighting and framing to clearly communicate a visual narrative.

AN 301 (S) Motion for Industry Ketchum

Whether one chooses to be an animation artist or a commercial studio artist, it is likely that you will take commissions and work in a team setting as a professional. This course prepares students to work with clients and collaborate with other artists to create a cohesive animation that effectively communicates a creative vision. By working with industry partners to create an animation, students will gain professional experience and have a piece for their portfolio.

AN 302 (S) 3.0 Film Pre-Production Ketchum

This course prepares students to begin production on their Graduation Film which they will work on during their fourth year. It will guide students through script-writing and storyboards, concept art and production planning, and have flexibility for individualized approaches to various projects. Whether a student plans to make an experimental film, installation, or narrative animation, this course will provide students with a structure to complete the pre-production phase of an animated project.

AN 303 (F) 3.0 Alternative Cinematic Structures Ketchum

Animation is inherently interdisciplinary, nor is it bound by the screen. In this course students from all departments are invited to bring their studio practice and envision alternative ways to employ animation such as in transmedia, installation, performance, and beyond. They will apply techniques attained in their other courses to develop a concept to create a sophisticated animation project. Drawing on precedents from the history of cinema and looking to contemporary examples, students will learn about how other moving image artists have made animations for contexts beyond the screen. This course is open to all concentrations as well as grad students.

AN 401 (F) 3.0 Graduation Film I Ketchum

The Graduation Film is the culmination of the knowledge, skills, and experiences gained at PAFA. Students will continue working on the project developed during the AN 302 Pre-Production course. Faculty will work with students on individualized plans to complete the various phases of their project. Through class and one-on-one critiques, students will problem solve and apply feedback.

AN 402 (S) 3.0 Graduation Film II Ketchum

This course is the continuation of Graduation Film I. By the end of this class, students will have fully realized a sophisticated animation project that reflects their studio practice and artistic direction.

DR 200 (FS) 1.5-3.0 Life Drawing Gury, Horn, Noel

Life Drawing will focus on developing skills and exploring the use of the figure with the following concepts: (1) structural and anatomical delineation of human form with line and tone. (2) The figure as an expressive end in itself. (3) Simple group compositions in interior as well as invented space. The class is open to various media & techniques.

DR 203 (F) 3.0 Studio Anatomy Osti

In this course the students will learn various levels of conceptualization, from basic boxes to realistic rendering of the forms. Beginning with proportions, volumes and posture, drawing from the model and the skeleton and with class demonstrations the students will learn to identify the main landmarks of the body, the skeletal structure and the muscles of the human body. The lecture portion of the course will focus on Descriptive Anatomy directed toward artistic purposes and connected theoretical concepts, the studio portion of the course is focused toward the practical application of these notions and concepts making them directly relevant to the students that will start immediately applying them toward the practice of drawing the human figure. Various drawings techniques will also be practiced and mastered in the Studio portion of the course.

DR 205 (FS) 1.5*Animal Drawing*Horn

Studying from birds, mammals and reptiles, domestic and wild; this course will focus on understanding the science and art of animals with reference to their structure, function, evolution and classifications. This will act as a foundation in order to understand the movements, forms and anatomy of a particular species. Perspective, space and composition in landscape and interiors will also be emphasized in relationship to the animals. Working from life, students will develop a good sense of concentration to see the repetition in movement and form as the basis for drawing.

DR 206 (S) 3.0*Observational Practices*Van Dyck

The goal of this course is to strengthen and hone a student's foundational skills of drawing through a series of one and two-day drawing projects. The major topics of concern will be gesture, design, perspective, structure and space. Students will be encouraged to experiment with different media and to develop a personalized drawing practice. Subjects for this exploration will be the life model, anatomical models, the city and the observable environment in general. The course includes field trips to the Wagner Free Institute of Science, the Academy of Natural Sciences, the Reading Terminal and the Observation Deck at Liberty One.

DR 210 (IR) 1.5*Figure & Portrait Lithography*Wyffels

See PR 210

DR 225 (F) 1.5*Drawing Focus & Useful Distractions*Wyffels

This course focuses on drawing as a form of investigation, with an emphasis on situation rather than object-oriented drawing. Learning to see through the relationships of forms in space, the movement within the given space and how to construct those visual passages toward a strong composition. Students are encouraged to experiment, to ask how visual composing, proportion and choice of materials and their uses best support the intent of the drawing. The class will work in the studio, at Reading Terminal and outside locations. Also, in this drawing course, students will develop a new heightened awareness and skill utilizing "Round World vision". Special emphasis will be placed upon drawing life subjected to Round World observations, escaping conventional systems of structuring the space of the drawing. Different topics and approaches to drawing will be explored. Students will make use of presumed and assumed "distractions" to achieve a fresh and active participant role "in" their drawings, all the while exploring the shape of looking and the shape of doing.

DR 305 (F) 1.5-3.0*Wet/Dry Media*Rupinski

This course provides a hands-on experience using traditional water-soluble materials, such as watercolor, gouache and ink, and through various dry media, such as graphite, colored pencils, chalk and pastel. There will be ample presentation, lecture and demonstration of the wet/dry media techniques. Students will be expected to provide basic materials that they already have. In order to ensure that all students can experience the various processes, the instructor will provide any materials that individual students do not have. Along with observational study, students will be guided in working from personal sketches, paintings, memory, and photography, as well from recognized artworks. The projects will encourage exploration, and experimentation in individual ways.

DR/PT 306 (S) 3.0*Painting & Drawing Ideas*Noel

An art education advances many explicit and implicit accounts of value in art making. A short list would include sensitivity, rigor, spontaneity and a sense of irony about the partiality of all perspectives. This class will be an all-day immersion in painting and drawing from life. Its most important requirement will be the faithful attendance of the students to work each and every class. In recent years practice or praxis has become an important synonym for artwork and the class will explore this as a discipline but, more importantly, as a source of ideas. Our deepest concern will be the discovery of the ideas that inhere in each student's developing practice. A crucial question is whether the tastes and skills you are developing create demands within your work that open the way to a more personal and a more rigorous personal poetry.

DR 311 (FS) 1.5*Drawing Studio*Samuelson

The purpose of this course is to promote an individual way of seeing and working from the human figure and develop personal vision. This includes approaching the figure either as an end in itself or as a point of departure, and exploring an individual use of materials and techniques. Instruction for this course will be directed to the individual along with some group criticism and group discussion.

DR 316 (S) 1.5*Narrative & Sequential Drawing*Foulks

Students will be introduced to strategies which will assist in the exploration of narrative drawings. Various forms of sequential images will be examined (picture books, graphic novels, comic books, altarpieces, polyptychs etc.). Each student will design a personal project which will be developed and monitored through individual discussions and group critiques. Exploring a wide range of preparatory drawings, story boards, and media/technique experiments will be a primary focus of the course. This will lead to at least one finished work.

DR 318 (F) 1.5-3.0*Advanced Drawing*Foulks

Beginning with the basic question - "What is drawing?" - we will examine the numerous and complex answers available to the contemporary drafts person. Some utilize drawing as a practice to prepare for works in another medium; a system of note taking; a thinking medium vital to artistic, spiritual or intellectual growth; an extension of the body; a method for experimentation and risk; a system of mark making confined to two dimensions or a system of making not confined by dimensions. The aim of this course will be to expand the participant's knowledge and understanding of the possibilities of drawing and to use this knowledge to further their own work. A project called Taxonomy will be the primary component of the first half of this course and will lead to a body of work developed organically from an initial prompt. During the second half of the course, we will investigate issues and strategies employed in large scale drawing, and students will have the opportunity to develop a single, sustained project. Discussions, individual and group critiques and independent research will assist in the development of a personal vision.

- ID 211 (S) 1.5-3.0                      Working from the PAFA Collection – Open Media                      Van Dyck
Using the visual material of antique casts, paintings, sculpture and architecture within the Historic Landmark Building, students will investigate a way to develop a series or single work from an individual interpretation. In collaboration with the instructor, individuals will communicate a starting point for their project. Students then will be encouraged to follow an idea broadly over the first weeks and gradually distill their idea down to have a defined idea in the finished work. A series of lectures will introduce students to formal compositional elements that can support an idea or narrative. Students will be expected to articulate their idea mid-semester with the work-in-progress, to do research on their topic, prepare a one page written paper, and make a final oral presentation with their efforts at the end of the semester. Work may be done in any medium, style, 2-D or 3-D.
- ID 301 (IR) 1.5                      Introduction to Avant Garde Video                      Dempewolf
This class is a hands-on introduction to forms of experimental animation, video installation and interdisciplinary performance. We will also read seminal texts by video artists and critical theorists to develop an understanding of what is at stake when one is working with moving images. Prior experience or coursework in digital media is highly recommended.
- ID 302 (IR) 1.5                      Exhibitions & Curatorial Visions                      Gallagher
This course will explore strategies of exhibition making, curating, and professional practice. The aim is to familiarize students with all aspects of designing and producing an exhibition, ranging from research and writing to organizational tasks. We will examine various curatorial methodologies for creating an exhibition (thematic, monographic, collection-based, site-specific, media-based, commissioned, interactive, performance, social practice etc). We will discuss the role of the artist as curator and learn about curatorial approaches within the museum, the commercial gallery, and the DIY space. Through readings and discussion, assignments, field trips, and guest lectures with PAFA museum staff and local curators, students will critically analyze the role of curators today. The class will culminate in an exhibition on PAFA's campus, curated by the students.
- ID 310 (F) 1.5-3.0                      Working from the Figure                      Gury
Students will have availability of models for painting and drawing in the classroom, using a variety of setups, lighting, etc., where the instructor will guide and critique projects. Strategies for referencing the visual material in the settings for the development of work with a personal point of view will be discussed. Included will be historical and contemporary perspectives on painting and drawing with the figure. To address the needs of the advanced student emphasis will be placed on independently directed work. Therefore, this class can serve as a bridge to figurative work being developed in the private studio as well as in the open studio classroom. Students may work in their studios, where the instructor may be invited to offer criticism regarding work in progress. The goal of this course is to support, strengthen and prepare the students for independent work as a studio artist.
- ID 313 (IR) 1.5-3.0                      Themes in Contemporary Art (Open Media)                      Gallagher
The goals of this class are to allow students time to complete an in-depth project or a series of investigations regarding material usage and content to improve their critical skills and to interact with their peers. Class time will alternate between presentation and group critique. The course is Theme based (five themes chosen by the students at the beginning of the semester which become the basis for a series of works done in their studio – themes change from semester to semester) Assignments are completed in the student's studio and discussed in group critiques.
- ID 450 (FS) 1.5                      Studio Practice                      Gallagher, Rosati
A required course intended for those entering the studio and critics program, Studio Practice provides a class environment for students to explore their artistic affinities and establish an independent studio practice. In the course students address questions of content and intent, research their ideas, and develop written artist statements. Through group discussion and study of historical and contemporary artists, students learn to contextualize their work and find their own voice.
- ID 451 (FS) 1.5                      Art and Professional Practice                      Gallagher, Nocella, Rosati
This course helps students prepare for life as an artist beyond the studio and school setting. Students will learn about professional paths for artists, including the gallery system, selling artwork, teaching, museum and gallery work, and related opportunities for artists. Students will develop practical skills such as photographing work, creating digital portfolios, writing cover letters, grant proposals, and resumes. They will learn public speaking skills and how to create presentations, and they will explore approaches to marketing and the use social media. The Annual Student Exhibition will provide an important opportunity for students to consider many of the ideas discussed in the course.
- IL 203 (F) 1.5                      Digital Photography References                      Teicher-Dougherty
This course will introduce the functions of the digital camera and focus upon its use as a reference tool. A wide range of lighting situations-found and staged- will be examined as students photograph landscape, objects, cityscape, interior spaces and the figure. These reference materials will be adapted to create representational, narrative and imaginative works. Grafting and compositional manipulations will assist in the development of a personal vision. Studio projects will be open to all media/disciplines.
- IL 205 (F) 3.0                      Graphic Narrative                      Robinson
With a focus on telling stories utilizing artwork, this course explores the juxtaposition of word and image, sequentiality, and other narrative tools to convey visual meaning. Participants will complete several visual narratives within a variety of formats, which may include a series of related images, a comic book, picture book, graphic novel, or other illustrated narrative.
- IL 210 (F) 3.0                      Illustration I                      Faculty
This course offers a survey of illustration in both function and practical application. Students will learn to analyze and visually interpret written source material while exploring a variety of ideation methods and experimenting with techniques combining traditional and digital media. Key projects will include illustrations for editorial, advertising, product packaging, picture books, and lifestyle applications. Non-illustration majors interested in visual communication are encouraged to join this class.

IL 211 (F) 3.0                      Digital Print & Web Design                      Robinson
Mastery of design tools, knowledge, and techniques is fundamental to enabling artists to communicate ideas and maintain control over how their work is presented to the world. This course will explore the essentials of graphic design, including layout design, typography, and web design, utilizing software such as Adobe Photoshop, InDesign, and Illustrator. Design principles will be investigated and applied in the production of print media applications and website interface layouts. Prerequisite: FY 103 Print & Communication I (digital imaging) or comparable transfer course.

IL 217/317 (S) 3.0                      Digital Drawing & Painting                      Robinson
This course explores the creative potential of drawing and painting digitally. Participants will learn intermediate and advanced drawing and painting approaches utilizing software such as Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, and Clip Paint Studio. These will be utilized to create a concept art portfolio which may include such content as character design, creature design, and environment design. Special attention will be given to design and iterative processes using digital tools. Prerequisite: FY 103 Print & Communication I.

IL 310 (F) 3.0                      Illustration II                      Abel
This course is an exploration of the key topics and conceptual problem solving in illustration work. Students will create posters, images for product licensing, and editorial, spot, and book illustrations in the media of their choice. Individual and group feedback will be used in the revision process and prepares students to work with clients. Prerequisite: Illustration I.

IL 315A (S) 3.0                      Narrative Projects                      Robinson
An advanced class in creating graphic narrative. This class is aimed at students interested in comics, picture books, and other longer narrative forms. Prerequisite: IL 205 Graphic Narrative or instructor's permission.

IL 350 (IR) 3.0                      Topics in Illustration                      Faculty
Topics in Illustration is a deep dive into one sub-specialty, technique, or approach to illustration and visual communication. Topics and faculty rotate annually.

IL 400A (F) 3.0                      Illustration Projects                      Abel
In Illustration Projects, students will take the robust skills they've developed in the Illustration Core and apply them to a semester-long self-designed project. Students will work independently to propose and complete implement individual, tailored projects. The goals of the class include learning to scope and manage large projects independently, time and attention management, and professional networking. Students will be expected to design projects that address their specific area of interest so that the portfolio pieces that result support his/her professional goals on completion of the Illustration program.

IL 402 (S) 1.5                      Professional Practices                      Abel
Independent artists function as small businesses, and in this class, students will come to understand what that means. They will investigate and develop a variety of business models that may lay in their futures, including looking at the specific roles illustrators may play, the customers and clients they'll deal with, and the marketing required to build a business on that model. Students will also create a budget and bookkeeping procedures, learn about contracts and legal aspects of the field, and continue developing their websites. Finally, students will develop and propose an independent project for IL 400A Illustration Projects.

IL 403A (S) 3.0                      Illustration Portfolio                      Abel
Students will work closely with a faculty mentor to design a robust portfolio, personal identity system, and promotional strategy consistent with their individual voice and professional goals. Professional practice discussions include financial literacy, marketing strategies, and appropriate communication. Additionally, students will conceptualize and create a public-facing digital component for their ASE show, and implement a marketing plan for their exhibition.

IN330 (FS) 1.5V                      Critique                      Faculty
The beginning of the final year represents the greatest period of transition in the student's PAFA career. The student will be moving from a highly structured segment of the program, with a specific classroom schedule, to hours spent alone in a private studio. The design of the private studio experience is oriented to introducing the student to the discipline necessary for independent work and preparing the student for the years following graduation. Student's work is discussed with and evaluated by the student's selected critics. The critics are available to help the student clarify their concepts and to realize them in a visual context. Students select three critics per semester and are required to meet with their critics once a month. Monthly individual discussions are intended to promote the definition and realization of the student's goals as he/she strives to develop a body of work. Although the primary focus is to discuss specific projects (works in progress as well as completed images), students are encouraged to consider topics for discussion (ex. subject matter and composition in relationship to content, effective use of research materials and preparatory studies, sources of inspiration, working routines, etc.).

IP 300 (IR) 1.5/3.0                      Internships                      Staff
Internships offer students in their 3rd and 4th year the opportunity to gain practical experience in an on-campus or off-campus cultural or art-related work situation. Students will meet with the Career Services director to develop learning goals for their internship placement and to create the materials necessary for an internship search, including resumes, cover letters, and letters of inquiry. Once placed in an internship, students will be required to meet with their advisor to assess their progress and evaluate their placement. At the end of the semester, the students will complete a reflection of their internship experience. Students will emerge from this class with a clear sense of working within the institutions, such as galleries, artists' studios, museums, publishers, art spaces, arts advocacy organizations, foundations and higher education institutions, which support artists and the art world, and they should have the preparation to successfully transition into those institutions. (45 hours /semester for 1.5 credits or 90 hours/semester for 3 credits)

LAN 228 (IR) 3.0                      Introduction to Creative Writing                      Beetham
This course will introduce students to various forms of creative writing: poems, stories, and creative non-fiction. We will explore these genres as both readers and writers, analyzing the published work of several authors while writing and workshoping our own. We will explore several different poetry and prose styles, as well as working with prompts from art, literature, or music. By the end of the semester, students will create an original collection of creative work in several genres.

MFA700 (FS) 1.5                      MFA Critique: Visiting Critics                      Faculty

The Visiting Critic course provides students with three studio visits per term with an assigned Visiting Critic. The Visiting Critics are rotating guest faculty who are highly accomplished in their field. They offer an outside voice and new perspective for students to consider. Between studio visits, students are expected to develop their artistic practice and produce work for discussion.

MFA 705C & 705B (Sum) 1.0 each                      Professional Practices                      Faculty

The Professional Practices courses focus on practical skills artists need to communicate and succeed. The first summer introduces institutional resources used for the Low-Residency program and beyond. The second summer focuses on career skills necessary for the professional world.

MFA 710 (FSSum) 7.5                      Core Critique Group                      Faculty

The Core Critique Group includes both individual studio visits and regular group critiques. Students work with three primary critics per term and have a minimum of three studio visits with each. In addition, students are part of a group that meets every three weeks for critique. Groups consist of 3 faculty members and 18-20 students. Each student presents their work once during the term for discussion. The group critiques offer an opportunity for students to share their work with each other and the faculty and they provide a forum for discussion and exchange of ideas. As part of the course, students are expected to continually develop their artistic practice and produce work for discussion.

MFA 715 (FS) 3.0                      Off-Site Studio/Critique                      Faculty

During the Fall and Spring terms off site, students will complete work in their own studios while using a range of digital and online tools to exchange images and engage in online discussion and feedback through blogs, online discussion groups and regular postings of works in progress. This virtual art community will be monitored and overseen by a faculty critic who will interact with each student for a minimum of three hours a week. An online virtual studio space will be created for each student to share images and to comment on each other's work in progress. Low Residency Program only.

MFA 730 (FSum) 3.0                      MFA1 Seminar: Reframing Theory                      Richards

This seminar will explore the relation between critical theory and contemporary art. The course will focus on some of the key thinkers, ideas, and schools of thought informing debates around contemporary art and aesthetics. The seminar will both situate theoretical ideas within a larger intellectual context and historical framework, while also providing the opportunity to explore these ideas through material visual examples. Primary and secondary texts pertaining to the course material will further extend students understanding of the ideas, individuals, groups, and movements informing aesthetic questions today. In addition to short assignments related to the course material, students will work on a semester long research project relating to their studio interests. The longer assignment will provide an opportunity to consider the potential theoretical frameworks pertinent to their creative work.

MFA 731 (S) 3.0                      MFA1 Seminar: Contemporary Art                      Richards

This class will introduce students to some of the major artists, works, themes and mediums defining contemporary art. Focusing on work made from the late 20th Century to the present, this course will explore a range of practices as artistic production has moved away from dominant western modes to become more global, embracing new media, popular culture, and social, political and cultural concerns. While emphasizing key artists, concepts and developments that are part of contemporary art discourse, we will also examine the histories and lineages that have informed the many ways art is made today.

MFA 740F/PB 540F (IR) 3.0                      Graduate Studio: Lo-Fi Translations                      Moran

LoFi Translations is based on visual responses to a set of structured yet open-ended prompts. The class will be a combination of private studio visits and group critiques where students will learn to analyze work through participation. The student will consider translation, abstractive, narrative and process through an interdisciplinary approach to their work. This class is ideal for those who want to expand and develop their studio practice through experimentation with a variety of mediums or installation. By analyzing the relationship between how the use of certain mediums support and express their conceptual content, students will be able to negotiate how their work is presented and perceived by the viewer. Students will be encouraged to move interchangeably between 2D and 3D works with an emphasis on making, supports, and presentation. The 3D will focus on low tech rather than traditional Western European sculptural methods. By separating the need to master complex techniques, the development of the student's sensibility is accelerated and emphasized.

MFA 740H/PB 540H (IR) 3.0                      Graduate Studio: Moving Images: Intro to Avant-Garde Practices                      Dempewolf

In this course we will develop a working understanding of video performance, documentation, multi-channel projections, image mapping and installation through workshops in Modul8, MadMapper, Premier and After Effects. Students will also learn the use of cameras, lighting equipment, projectors and media players with an emphasis on integrating these skills with their current studio practices. The workshops will be framed by lectures and group discussions about video-performance-installation history and critical theory, with a strong emphasis placed on Avant-Garde and experimental-materialist approaches to the moving image.

MFA 740I/PB 540I (IR) 3.0                      Graduate Studio: Expanded Video                      Dempewolf

In this course we will develop a working understanding of video performance, documentation, multi-channel projections, image mapping and installation through workshops in Modul8, MadMapper, Premier and After Effects. Students will also learn the use of cameras, lighting equipment, projectors and media players with an emphasis on integrating these skills with their current studio practices. The workshops will be framed by lectures and group discussions about video-performance-installation history and critical theory, with a strong emphasis placed on Avant-Garde and experimental-materialist approaches to the moving image.

MFA 740M/PB 540M (IR) 3.0                      Graduate Studio: Wrong Just Right                      Moran

Often very important things hover just at the edge of conscious thought; essential, yet partially obscured; seeming insignificant until focused by prolonged concentration. The goal of this class is to move what is on your periphery into the center of your work. We will do this utilizing three main processes: photography, drawing, and writing, concentrating specifically on where they intersect, override and/ or run parallel to each other. Transitional work (i.e. work that is not an end point) will be supported, in order to give you permission to make effortful mistakes, with an emphasis on effort. In the first 3/4ths of the class you will be asked to solve a series of problems based on specific themes with accompanying questions and prompts. In the final stage of the class, you will consider all of this newly generated material and complete a significant self-designed culminating project. A clean installation room will be available for the purpose of presentations and/or experimental fumbling.

MFA 740V (IR) 3.0 Graduate Studio: Moving Images: Theory & Practice Ketchum
In this course students will learn basic production technologies to create moving image projects that relate to their personal studio practice. Through readings and film screenings, they will also learn to understand their work in the context of the history and theories pertaining to the moving image. Particular emphasis will be made on combining handmade with digital techniques using software such as Dragonframe, Photoshop, After Effects, and Premiere.

MFA 740Y (IR) 3.0 Graduate Studio: Moving Image Trajectories Ketchum
In this course students learn to connect their current creative direction and studio practice to their impulse to make moving images. The primary goal of this course is to assist students in connecting the ideas that motivate their studio practice to time-based media. During the first few weeks, students create experiments based on prompts in order to generate ideas for a moving image project of their own design. This may include live-action video, installation, animation, or any other time-based format. The latter part of the course will be focused on actualizing the project outlined by the student with feedback from the course instructor and class critiques. BFA and MFA students at any level of experience with the moving image are eligible to take this course.
*Note: While students are invited to work in any moving image format, the course is taught through the lens of animation methods and history.

MFA 740Z (IR) 3.0 Graduate Studio: Indirect Painting Teicher-Dougherty
In this course students will focus on the process of indirect painting, taking a methodical approach to building up a painting in layers. We will discuss the power of layering tone and color, learn to separate drawing skills from applied color theory, explore glazing and scumbling, and utilize different palette approaches (underpaintings, dead palette, and full color). While any preferred subject matter is welcome, indirect painting lends itself particularly well to flesh tones, and the portrait and figure will be highlighted. Students will be encouraged to explore all methods taught to aid them in a deeper dive into their painting practice.

MFA 741C (IR) 3.0 Graduate Studio: Found Objects/Finding Sites S. Dufala
This class is about exploring alternative methods to traditional art making practices. With a focus on working outside of the studio, and using the city's often unpredictable supply of discarded materials as a basis for new work, students will explore flexible approaches to art making, interfacing with different aspects of the waste stream, and an awareness of the artist's changing role in this context. This will be discussed in both practical and conceptual contexts addressing sustainability and the changing state of our material culture. Class time will be devoted largely to investigating the potential for found materials in one's own work, lectures on relevant artists and techniques associated with contemporary site specific art and the sustainability movement.

MFA 741D (IR) 3.0 Graduate Studio: From Meme to Masterpiece Geffrard
This course will explore contemporary painting through the lens of social media and photography. Students will learn how to translate images from social media, including memes and pop culture references, into unique and vibrant paintings. The course will also examine the role of social media in the art world and how it impacts artists in 2023.

MFA 750 (Sum) 3.0 Art in the City Dempewolf
The Art in the City seminar is intended to familiarize students with the galleries, museums and art studios of Philadelphia and beyond. Weekly guided explorations will expose students to different venues for exhibiting and making art. From museums that show historical and established work, such as the Barnes Collection, Philadelphia Museum of Art, and the museums of New York, to commercial galleries and the artist collective galleries of Philadelphia, to artists studios and collaborative work spaces such as the Fabric Workshop, students will be exposed to a range of art work and production and exhibition practices.

MFA 800 (Sum) 1.0 Visiting Artist Program Faculty
Students see visiting artists and critics for a lectures and a studio visits. These visiting artists and critics are selected for their importance and prominence as artists, and represent a diverse range of contemporary concerns in the visual arts. Low Residency Program only.

MFA 820 (F) 3.0 Writing on Art for Artists Csaszar
This course will focus on the many ways artists have used writing and how criticism shapes an artist's work. By looking at various forms of writings by historical and contemporary artists and critics, students will gain greater clarity in their own writing and the objectives of various written documents. Blogs, artist statements, reviews, essays and manifestos will all be studied, and students will adopt these forms to write about their own work and the work of other artists. Faculty will guide each project so that it supports and enhances the student's studio work. Online discussions and peer review are an integral component of the course.

MFA 825 (F) 3.0 MFA2 Seminar: Contemporary Visual Culture Richards
This seminar will focus on a series of topics pertinent to contemporary visual culture, mapping their significance against the contested terrains of artistic practice, theory, and history. In doing so, the course will encourage intellectual curiosity through an interdisciplinary approach to research, drawing upon material from philosophy, literature, art, art history, cultural studies, film, criticism, and theory to present topics creatively and with rigorous insight. Contemporary and historical examples of art will be used as a means of exploring the issues being investigated and their significance for contemporary aesthetics. In achieving this, students will read primary and secondary texts related to the ideas being presented, using this material as the basis for short assignments and classroom discussions.

MFA 830 (F) 3.0 MFA2 Seminar: The Studio & Beyond Deleget
Providing a thoughtful, in depth, and grounded approach to transitioning from graduate school to the art world, this course offers professional development support as it addresses personal definitions of "success", varying modes of operating in the "real" world, and the multitude of options and art worlds one can explore. The course is both practical and philosophical in its approach to what it means to sustain a studio practice.

MFA 831F (S/IR) 3.0      MFA2 Seminar: Artist as Curator      Geffrard

This is a graduate level course that encourages participants to not only assume the role of curator but to also exercise the necessary skills of building a context for their work and their contemporaries. We will encourage artists to find the appropriate critical and cultural languages with which to make their work legible to a desired audience. Participants will mount a pop-up exhibition as well as two large-scale exhibitions over the course of the semester, each with a particular critical focus. These thematic foundations will serve as the premise from which we make selections for venues, objects, participating artists, and supplemental information, which could include text, programming, screening, panels, etc. The course is structured into several independent organizational groups (Curatorial, Press and Publication, Installation and Reception). Groups will shift between exhibitions to allow all students to fully experience every facet of an exhibition from conception, to planning, to realization.

MFA 831G (S/IR) 3.0      MFA2 Seminar: In Recognition of Codes      Geffrard

This is a graduate level course that encourages participants to assume the role of curator and artist. We will exercise the necessary skills of building gallery relationships and design a collective group show. Current critical cultural issues will aid in creating the theme of our group show. The course is structured into a collective organizational group. Selections for venues, objects, participating artists and supplemental information- which could include text, programming, screening, panels, curatorial, press and publication, installation, etc.- will all be collectively decided.

MFA 850 & 855 (F/S) 1.5/1.5      Written Thesis I & II      Faculty

In the fall of the second year of the MFA program, students may select to write a thesis. For this document, students are encouraged to pursue their own interests while addressing the following: How do you place your work in both an historical and contemporary social context? Who are your artistic ancestors? With what other artists do you have artistic affinities? For the thesis, you are asked to write a descriptive overview of the whole body of your work, including any threads of consistency or elements of change, which become evident to you upon reflection. Interpret your own artwork, citing particular images from the work you have done and are doing. Discuss subject, form, and content. Include footnotes and references as needed. Describe how you proceed in conceiving and making your work, and how you prepare yourself and your environment. Include the kinds of research that have been useful to you—museum, library, gallery, and/or discussion. Provide a description of the physical process of making the work including materials, particularly in relationship to content. Students will meet with their Thesis Advisor to discuss their progress on a regularly scheduled basis. Students are also encouraged to solicit advice from other critics as well as from peers. The Thesis Advisor is responsible for overseeing the planning, writing and completion of the theses. Students in the Low Residency MFA program will continue to develop their work in MFA 855 Written Thesis II.

MFA 851 (S) 3.0      Thesis Exhibition      Faculty

All students are required to produce a body of work to present for the spring thesis exhibition held in the museum. This body of work is a culmination of the studio research that has been conducted over the course of the MFA program. Working with their faculty critics, students produce work, plan and install an exhibition of their thesis work. Students then present this work for discussion to a faculty review committee.

MFA 860 (Sum) 4.0      Visual Thesis      Faculty

Continuing the work begun in Written Thesis I & II, students develop the articulation of their written thesis in tandem with their studio work. This seminar allows for an intimate dialogue between students' visual work and the written component. Students meet with their these advisor on a regularly scheduled basis to discuss their work and writing. Students are also encouraged to solicit advice from other critics and peers. Visual Thesis culminates in a finished written thesis and an exhibition of the students' thesis work, a capstone of the Low Residency MFA program.

PB 500 (FS) 3.0V      Post-Baccalaureate Critique      Faculty

The 3 credit Studio/Critique course consists of a minimum of 9 clock-hours per week of individual studio work and at least 3 critiques per semester with each assigned Critic, each Critique being of 30 minute duration. Occasional Group Critiques are offered. Students are encouraged to register for both local and outside critics. Because every semester of Graduate study includes 9 credits of Studio/Critique course work, every student is required to complete a minimum of 27 hours per week of individual studio work, and a total of 9 critiques per semester.

PB 525A/B (FS) 3.0      Seminar/ Subject, Form and Content      Faculty

This two-semester seminar involves formal investigations into the aesthetic and philosophical issues of art, as well as an examination of professional ethics and practices. Emphasis is placed upon the methodology of forming value judgments and on the development of verbal, written, and analytical skills. The course meets once a week. Topics particular to subject, form, and content are presented for discussion. Such topics have many origins, including some recommended by Seminar participants, and some from assigned and selected readings. Students may be asked to bring to class examples of their work to serve as examples for comparison of one concept with another. A major objective is to maintain a thematic approach in identifying topics of discussion from one week to the next, so that each session becomes an additional facet of an ongoing course of inquiry and dialog. For the purpose of continuity, each participant will keep adequate notes to stimulate further discussion. The completion of several writing assignments will be required. This is a course of inquiry intended to establish a useful model of intellectual activity for the developing artist.

PR 202A (FS) 1.5v      Lithography Printmaking      Wyffels

This course introduces the uses of contemporary & traditional techniques and materials for Crayonstone, Crayonplate and Photoplate lithography. Ways to draw and paint freely and directly on traditional limestone surfaces as well as lightweight portable aluminum plates are demonstrated. Photo-plate methods capture drawings, paintings, digital images and photographs separately or in mixed image combinations within the hand-printed lithograph. The course focus is on drawing, painting elements and personal artistic development. It is a second year requirement for printmaking majors and minors and a great elective for any student. Lithography Printmaking is a prerequisite for Intermediate Lithography PR 254.

PR 210 (IR) 1.5 Figure & Portrait Lithography Wyffels

In this course, students will draw from the life model directly onto lightweight, portable aluminum litho plates that have a lovely drawing surface resembling that of a litho stone. These plates are ready to draw; no preparation necessary. Their use is quick and easy: draw, followed by a simple etch process, take it to the press and print it! Also, positive-acting photo litho plates will be used to transfer drawings made on mylar or paper surfaces to a printable form. With either plate, quick and easy one-step processing makes the drawn plates readily printable. Lithography is all about drawing, and this course exemplifies that! There will be multiple scheduled “in-the-print-shop life model drawing sessions” alternating with processing and printing sessions. Open to all levels of drawing and printmaking experience. Cross-listed in Printmaking.

PR 252/352 (S) 1.5v Intermediate/Advanced Intaglio Rosati

Intermediate Intaglio teaches an amplified technical vocabulary and challenges students to experiment with atypical approaches to producing black and white and color prints. The fundamental intaglio techniques that include carborundum prints, mezzotint, lift-grounds, photo-transfer methods, and shaped plates are reviewed. Advanced Intaglio demonstrations include a variety of color intaglio printing methods. Portfolios should demonstrate a related body of work of singular images, sequential images, and image narratives that may include verbiage, collage, and hand coloring. Participate in a class exchange print. Visits to a museum print study room will review & discuss Intaglio printmaking history through print illustrations and in fine art books.

PR 252 Intermediate Intaglio (3.0 credits) is a prerequisite for PR 352 Advanced Intaglio.

PR 253/353 (F) 1.5v Intermediate/Advanced Relief Miller

This course will include drawing, cutting and printing techniques through both hand and press experimentation. It will involve close contact with each student to increase visual challenge and to build awareness of relief possibilities such as: reductive printing, wood engraving, multicolor possibilities, the illustration of a text, the carving of text, production of a book, and work in series. Advanced Relief promotes multicolor printing and Intermediate Relief investigates value structures and textures. The history of the relief process will be emphasized through scheduled slide lectures as content directed activity, employing an illustrative base. The prerequisite for Advanced Relief is 3.0 credits of Intermediate.

PR 254/354 (S) 1.5v Intermediate/Advanced Lithography Wyffels

The intent of this course is to advance individual art concepts through an exploration of the lithographic medium. Independent thinking and artwork is encouraged. Intermediate Lithography explores image potentials of the litho stone through counter-etching and altering the drawn/painted images as further-developed states, sequences or narratives of the image. Demonstrations of aluminum plate lithography will amplify possibilities for both hand-drawn and photo plate images to include thermo-plastic toner washes. Advanced Lithography promotes multi-color printing. Aesthetic and technical guidance will facilitate students' artistic self-discovery through technical demonstrations, discussion, critiques and examples of artists' lithographs. Both representational and abstract concepts are discussed. Lithography PR202 or Lithography PR602E are prerequisites for Intermediate Lithography PR 254
The prerequisite for Advanced Lithography PR354 is 3.0 credits of Intermediate Lithography PR254.

PR 255/355 (F) 1.5v Print Media I & II Rosati

Printmaking Media I is a second year requirement for printmaking majors and minors and available to any student as an elective. It is a project dedicated course that provides an array of experiences in: eraser stamp prints, collographs, color reduction linocuts, wood engraving, letterpress, basic book structures, single print illustrations with text, and print image narratives in a book structure.

Print Media II is designed as an independent study. Students set their own portfolio goals in consultation with the instructor and compliant with the credit level. Mixed methods to create sequential images and image narratives are encouraged as a suite or in book format. Visits to a museum print study room will present print illustrations and fine art books relevant to the course. PR 255 Print Media I is a prerequisite for PR 355 Print Media II.

PR 260 (F) 1.5v Monotype/Monoprint/Etching Rosati

Monotypes, monoprints and etchings are the focus of this course. A variety of methods will be demonstrated. Monotypes are paintings that are printed onto paper by way of traditional and contemporary printmaking methods. Monoprints are traditional prints made with a matrix that includes painterly elements. It is combination of monotype painting with a traditional matrix image. Students will be challenged to present work in both small and large formats. Unique, mixed-media prints will be encouraged to create varied editions that include hand-painted, collaged items and creative attachments. An overview of monotype/monoprint history will be examined through presentations and print study room visits.

PR 265/365 (S) 1.5v Screenprinting/Advanced Screenprinting Rosati

Screenprinting introduces a variety of stencil systems such as paper stencils, screen filler, drawing fluid, and photo-imaging methods. Hand-drawn images, hand-cut stencils, painted images, photographic images and digital images may be employed to create a multicolor print. Printing on a variety of materials to include textiles is included. Personal expression and proficiency with the stencil technical vocabulary are objectives. Advanced Screenprinting is designed as an independent study. Students declare their own portfolio goals in consultation with the instructor and compliant with the credit level. Portfolios should demonstrate a related body of work by way of singular images, sequential images, and image narratives that may include verbiage, collage, and hand coloring. Students are encouraged to experiment with different print platforms to include paper, textile and plastics. Participate in a class exchange print. Visits to a museum print study room will present screenprint history, illustrations and fine art books relevant to the course. Screenprinting PR 265 is a Prerequisite for Advanced Screenprinting PR 365.

PT 200 (FS) 1.5-3.0 Life Painting Gury, Martenson, Rupinski

Students will learn to plan and execute complex paintings using the life model as a subject. Included will be historical and contemporary perspectives on life painting, presentations of materials used in life painting, strategies for creating spatial concepts, and concepts of visual language skills and critical thinking. Poses will vary in length depending on the section and instructor, and strong emphasis is based on skill development and the development of a personal point of view using the life model. Individual and group critiques will be conducted.

PT 205 (S) 1.5 Observation, Imagination & Painting Materials Martenson

Using imagination, observation, and personal ideas students will push the boundaries of painting materials and subject matter. Works will be developed through guided application using a variety of materials working from the figure, clothed figure, objects and other source material. We will be using PAFA's collection, the PMA and field trips to galleries to help illustrate techniques and how materials are used in different applications. The students will be introduced to different painting techniques, use of collage, acrylic and water-based materials. In class, students will learn to prepare different painting surfaces and grounds & we will stretch a canvas. Individualized instruction and group critiques will be given throughout the session.

- SC 223 (S) 1.5                      Plaster and Casting Techniques                      Faculty
 The course is designed to introduce the processes of casting and mold-making while exposing students to a variety of contemporary sculpture, artists, and studio practices. The class is hands-on and centered around the production of the students' sculpture. Student projects will be self-directed with continuous technical input from the instructor. Demonstrations will be given in waste molds, rubber molds and casting techniques. The course includes a field trip to study contemporary sculpture in New York galleries.
- SC 235A (F) 1.5v                      Sculpture Processes I: Carving & Modeling                      Nocella
 This class focuses on both carving and modeling. Students will be instructed in the methods and techniques of carving stone as well as the methods and materials of modeling. They will gain a greater understanding of form and space by exploring sculpture through both these complimentary processes, one being additive, and the other being subtractive. Students will learn to make their own tools and will work in stone, wood, clay, plaster and stucco.
- SC 235B (F) 1.5v                      Sculpture Processes II. Welding & Construction                      Nocella
 This class focuses on welding and other methods of construction. Students will explore sculpture through the processes of cutting, forming and joining metal and other construction materials. They will learn to use an array of equipment and tools, such as saws, drills, torches, welders, plasma cutter, etc., and will learn a variety of construction techniques, including MIG and TIG welding, forging, tapping, threading, bolting, etc.
- SC 270 (FS) 1.5                      Figurative Open Studio                      Horn
 Open Studio is a comprehensive figure modeling class for second, third and fourth year students. The class will continue the study of the figure, with focus on anatomy and proportion, but will also emphasize the crucial elements of gesture and rhythm, spontaneity and spirit. Students will be encouraged to work in a variety of sizes and outside projects should be expected. Independent study and experiment is always encouraged. Issues concerning the advanced students will be discussed on an individual basis. Broader topics/discussions, such as the nature and philosophy of art and the artist will also be introduced.
- SC 291/391 (F) 1.5v                      Wood Studio                      Greig
 Anything that is built out of wood is made from component parts. To understand the parts and how they fit together is to understand the whole. This class will teach students to think about a constructed work as differently shaped parts that are created separately and joined together. Students will learn woodworking techniques to fabricate parts precisely and assemble them into a whole. The class will begin with guided exercises and move on to individual projects tailored to each student's level of experience. The class will learn how craftsmanship and idea relate by examining examples of historic and contemporary works and discussing the construction methods used. Prerequisite for Advanced Wood Studio is 3.0 credits of Intermediate.
- SC 295 (S) 1.5                      Altered Spaces                      Greig
 This class will interact with the environments around us, making changes that highlight perceptions in the everyday spaces we inhabit. We will explore making alterations that are temporary, using materials such as paint, string, fabric or light. But also building in a more permanent method, working with lumber, plaster and drywall. Through multiple projects we will examine space from expression to function.
- SC 711E (F) 1.5                      Foundry: An Introduction/All Levels                      Efremoff
 This course will cover all aspects of the foundry process. Demonstrations and hands-on instruction will be given in wax modeling and casting, ceramic shell techniques, bronze pouring, metal chasing, TIG welding and patination. All levels welcome. Note: This course has a $65 materials fee.
- SC 712E (F) 1.5                      Mold-Making for Sculpture                      Efremoff
 Mold-making is an essential element of a sculptor's toolkit, both for those casting in a permanent material like bronze, and for artists wishing to present objects in multiples. In this course students will learn how to produce poured urethane "blanket molds," which are not only extremely versatile, but also less toxic, less expensive and more rapidly produced than comparable paint-on molds. Instruction will include in-depth demonstrations of all elements of mold making production and step-by-step guidance as students apply this process to their own projects. An integral skill for any sculptor, or an excellent follow-up for students who have taken a clay-modeling class and wish to preserve their work.
- SQT 203 (F) 3.0                      Business Practices in Art                      McTague
 In this course, students will learn a range of business fundamentals central to developing and sustaining a profitable art business. In the first half of the course students will learn about the microeconomics of the contemporary art market, the mechanics of gallery and auction sales, and the state of art finance and investment. In the second half of the course, students will build on this knowledge to consider marketing, finance, and management practices for their own entrepreneurial pursuits. The course culminates in a comprehensive business plan for the student's own art business, a for- or non-profit art business, or a non-profit institution.
