Historical note

Joseph Harrison Jr. was the son of a Philadelphia grocer. He had little formal schooling and worked for several machinery firms in the 1820s and 1830s. In the later 1830s several of his improvements in locomotive engines brought him to the attention of Russian engineers embarking on an ambitious railroad-building project. From 1843 to 1850 Harrison lived with his wife, Sarah Poulterer Harrison, and their growing family in Russia. In 1847, he was decorated by Czar Nicholas I for his work on the Russian project.

In 1850 and 1851 he traveled in Europe, returning to Philadelphia in 1852 a wealthy man. In 1851 he rescued the American painter George Catlin from debt and took possession of Catlin's gallery of American Indian paintings and artifacts (later given by his wife to the Smithsonian Institution). In 1854 he purchased over twenty works from the sale of portraits and historical paintings formerly in Peale's Museum in Philadelphia – his largest single acquisition of art. In 1859 he purchased Benjamin West's monumental painting Christ Rejected (now in the Academy collection), realizing its potential importance as a Philadelphia cultural asset. From late 1860 to late 1863 he again traveled abroad, visiting major monuments and galleries, and describing them in a series of letters now preserved at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

In 1863 and 1864 he served on the board of commissioners of the Great Sanitary Fair and as Chairman of its Fine Arts Committee. From 1867 to 1873 he also served as a commissioner of the Fairmount Park Commission.

In 1855 he joined the Pennsylvania Academy board, serving on various committees for fifteen years. Harrison left the board in 1870, after a dispute over the best location for the new Academy building, and as a result of his declining health. In 1872, he donated $10,000 to the Academy's building fund. After his death, his wife left the Academy a group of the greatest masterpieces from his collection, many of which are among the supreme icons of American art.

Scope and Contents note

The April 2008 portion of the gift included two large bound volumes, both titled: "Visitors Register/ Joseph Harrison, Jr./Art Gallery." Volume one contains signatures, addresses and a few remarks from visitors to the Harrison residence from October of 1874 to April of 1888. The second volume dates from November 1888 to March 1905. The second volume does not carry a column for remarks, and contains a few “joke” signatures, probably added by Harrison’s grandsons.

Also donated in April of 2008 were two copies of the printed booklet titled Catalogue of Pictures, Statuary and Bronzes in the Gallery of the Late Joseph Harrison, Jr., Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia, 1874. One copy is bound in a leather portfolio; the other is unbound and badly damaged. The damaged copy carries over two dozen annotations. Each reads “Academy,” written after the name of a work of art.

In May of 2009 the collection of photographs of Harrison’s home and family, plus two copies of an engraved portrait of Harrison were transferred to the Academy pending legal disposition of the estate. The donors will sign the deed of gift for these items at a later date.

*Itemized details

Photographs:

Interiors of the Harrison home:

None of the interior shots carry any inscriptions, dates, or printed identifications. Numbers on the backs of the mounts were added at PAFA.

No. 1:

Vertical format shot of the statue niche showing the marble sculpture Eve Repentant by Bartholomew (on an elaborate pedestal), with other statues and busts visible on either side of the space. On the right side the bust of Lincoln, now owned by the Woodmere Art Museum, is visible.

Albumen print.

9 5/8 x 7 inches.

Mounted onto same size cardboard mount (unframed at the Pennsylvania Academy).

One copy

No. 2:

Horizontal format shot showing the Eve Repentant marble from the room next to it. This view is through the three arches separating the room from the side niche. The painting at the center is King Lear by Rothermel.

Silver print

6 x 8 1/16 inches.

10 1/2 x 13 3/4 inch black cardboard mount

One copy

Nos. 3 and 4:

Horizontal format shot showing the sculpture of the infant Bacchus in a basket, in front of an elaborate semi-circular window arch or partition. Paintings are visible behind and to the right of the sculpture.

Silver print.

6 1/8 x 8 1/8 inches.

10 1/2 x 13 3/4 inch black cardboard mount.

Two identical copies of this photograph.

Joseph Harrison Jr. papers (MS.024)

No. 5:

Vertical format shot showing the same room as numbers 3 and 4. Differs from the horizontal version in that different small sculptures are seen in front of the central painting, and the room behind the partition is well-lit and partially visible.

Albumen print.

9 ¼ x 7 ¼ inches.

14 x 11 inch cream mount board.

One copy

No. 6:

Vertical format shot of the grand parlor or salon, with elaborate globe-lit chandeliers hanging from ceiling. At the far end, in front of a large floor to ceiling mirror, is a marble sculpture on a pedestal assumed to be The Swan of the Vatican by Joseph Mozier.

Albumen print.

9 1/4 x 7 1/2 inches.

14 x 11 inch cream mount board.

One copy

No. 7:

Vertical format shot of grand parlor or salon seen in photograph number 6. This view shows the opposite end of the room, with a marble sculpture of a seated semi-nude girl holding her foot.

Albumen print.

9 1/8 x 7 1/2 inches.

14 x 11 inch cream mount board.

One copy

Photographs of Harrison Family Members:

Group photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harrison, Jr. surrounded by one male and four female children. Further identification and dating for this image are needed.

Platinum print.

4 x 4 1/8 inches on three-ply mount.

Photographer inscription in graphite at lower right of top mount layer is not legible.

Joseph Harrison Jr. papers (MS.024)

Group shot of eighteen people arranged on the front porch of what may be a summer-house. Sixteen of the subjects are seated or stand on the porch. A man and a woman are seated on horses at either side of the central group. Joseph Harrison, Jr. stands in front of the left porch rail and his wife is probably the woman behind him.

Albumen print.

5 x 7 1/2 inches mounted on cream mat board.
