Abstract	The category of special events has been created to document awards given or received by the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, as well as lectures, concerts, receptions, and celebrations sponsored by the institution. There is no department that carries this title. Events have been sponsored by the museum, the school, the Fellowship, and, more recently, by the Development Office. It is often difficult to assign the originating impulse for a particular event to one branch or the other. In addition, the Academy has frequently rented or donated its premises to outside organizations for their events. It should be noted that the Hamilton Auditorium in the Furness-Hewitt building was originally known as the school lecture hall. More information on special events can be found in annual reports and in the records of the Women's Board, the Fellowship, the Public Relations and Development departments, and in the minutes of various committees.

Awards Presented by, or Given to the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts

The most famous award given by the Academy, its Gold Medal of Honor, recognizes distinguished service or achievement in the field of visual art. First awarded in 1893, it was given forty-one times between that year and 1984. The award was revived in 2004 when it was presented to Louise Bourgeois. In 2005 there were two recipients: Helen Frankenthaler and R. B. Kitaj. Designed by Daniel Dupuis, the medal depicts a classically garbed man holding a palette while a muse or goddess extends a laurel wreath above his head.

The Award of American Art, a crystal disk etched with a design derived from the Gold Medal of Honor, was inaugurated in 1985 to recognize achievement by a living artist. It was presented to Frank Stella in 1985 and to Nancy Graves in 1987.

The Founders' Medal, was first presented in 1990. It recognizes distinguished efforts in support of the visual arts. It is a silver medal embossed with the palette and brush design derived from the original seal. The medal was awarded to Red Grooms in 1990, Senator John H. Heinz III in 1991 (posthumously), Edna S. Tuttleman in 1992, Sir Roger de Grey in 1994, Dorrance H. and Samuel M. V. Hamilton in 1995, Meyer P. and Vivian O. Potamkin in 1996, Jacob Lawrence in 1997, Andrew Wyeth in 1998 and the Women's Board in 2001. A redesigned Founders' Medal was presented to William Gerdts and Alex Katz in 2005.

The Furness Prize for distinction in American architecture, a bronze medallion designed by Alexander Hromych, was presented to Hyman Myers in 1976, and to Esther Kahn in memory of Louis I. Kahn, in 1979.

The Dean's Award, an embossed certificate, recognizes service to the school and was first awarded in 1989 and has been presented occasionally at either the school convocation or at the graduation exercises. Since 1994 the Academy has presented an honorary doctorate of humane letters at the school graduation ceremony.

Awards to students as spring prizes in the school, or to artists for work shown in the annual exhibitions are described in the relevant sections of this volume.

Awards or citations Presented to the Academy commence with 1960. Most recognize design or architectural excellence. The certificates or plaques are files in the Buildings and Special Events series. In 2005 the President of the United States awarded The National Medal for the Arts to the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts.

Printed tickets survive for more than one hundred lectures presented through about 1920, and for numerous lectures held in later years. Many of these were sponsored by the Fellowship, although the public was welcome. The list of lectures is a fascinating array of both famous and unknown names. Lecturers of note include Christopher Dresser, Eadweard Muybridge, John La Farge, Arthur J. Eddy, William Merritt Chase, and Ernest F. Fenollosa. The complete lecture list, and in many cases correspondence with the speakers, is available from the Archives. More information on lectures may be found in Academy newsletters and press releases as well as newspaper articles. Clippings can be found in the Academy scrapbooks (see 5-C), or the actual newspapers can be consulted elsewhere, as the scrapbooks are not complete. For lectures and symposia after about 1960, scripts or transcriptions of audiotapes may survive, along with the printed tickets.
