Historical note

After the new structure opened in 1876, sets of stereopticon views of the building were sold at the door, in what might be termed the earliest museum shop activity. Photographs of the Grand Stairhall taken in the 1920s show a postcard display rack on the landing, and Academy postcards from many different decades survive. All postcards and note cards, regardless of image or date, are stored with the museum shop materials. The modern museum shop opened in the Furness-Hewitt building in 1976. Prior to that time, books and postcards were sold from the lobby and for a few years in the early 1970s, from the former studio space that became the Morris Gallery.

In 1994, the museum shop, and the school store (renamed PAFA Art Supply), were incorporated into a new retail sales division of the Finance Department. The shop began selling a wider variety of merchandise, some of which, such as reproductions of works in the permanent collection, is produced specifically for sale (see 2-D for archived catalogues and portfolios of reproductions of art owned by the Academy). Other items, while sold in the shop, originated as promotions for exhibitions or special events and are noted under "Special-Format Museum Records." The Archives houses an example of almost every item carrying the Academy's logo, name, or images. These include clothing, bags, playing cards, coffee mugs, gift boxes, magnets, pencils, notepads, bookmarks, postcards, note cards, posters, coloring books, and calendars. Office files of the director of retail sales are not retained in the Archives.

In 2005 the retail shop, renamed Portfolio, was moved into new space on the ground floor of the Samuel M.V. Hamilton Building.
