Philadelphia is home to more than a dozen art museums including the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts (PAFA) - the oldest art museum in the city and country.

Work from artists educated at PAFA can be seen at museums across the globe but you don’t need to visit far-flung museums to see wonderful works of art. PAFA in Philly is a free art experience. Lace up your walking shoes and use our map to visit public art created by PAFA artists.

Did you know City Hall and the famous William Penn statue, along with 250 other pieces in the building, were designed by PAFA alumnus Alexander Milne Calder?

Spend an afternoon exploring the city and learning about the public artworks from the PAFA community that beautify and enrich our blocks.

This list and map are ever evolving so reach out if you would like to add a work to our PAFA in Philly map. Email digital content producer, LeAnne Matlach, with the name and location of the work and a photo.
